Baccalaureate.

The class attended Trinity Reformed Church in a body to hear the baccalaureate sermon preached to them by Rev. Paul R. Pontius, pastor of the church, who took as his text Romans 6:16. "Do you know that you are the servants of the Master you obey, of the master to whom you yield yourself obedient, whether it is sin, whose service ends in death, or obedience, whose service ends in righteousness."

Obedient servants was the message of his sermon and among other things he said:

"If your master is sin, you are the servant of sin. Indulge in vice and you are the slave of licentiousness; your character will be written on your countenance. But let joy be your lord and your obedience to such a master will make others joyful."

There are four outlets for the powers of man which, if not closed, will make his life worth living. They are work, play, love and worship. Every one has a task-work. We have powers in us that fit us for the performance of our tasks. But we of our own accord can perform or shirk.

Work is the outlet; laziness stops the flow. Work makes life a rushing stream which purifies itself in its rushing; laziness makes life a stagnant pool. There are laws of the highest realms and laws of the lowest realms. You learn them by experience. The essential thing is that you obey them, but where there is no obedience to the highest there is obedience to the lowest. Your success in life depends upon the laws you obey."

"Play occupies a large place in the enjoyment of a happy life. Many cannot play; they think it is useless. They live with their noses on the grindstone and are slaves, not servants, of their work. A servant gets something out of life; a slave does not. Consequently we have many slaves in this world who do not know it; those who do not believe in playgrounds, who do not have enough patriotism to celebrate the Fourth of July, or Lincoln's or Washington's birthday."

"The great value in play is that we learn to give and take, and do it with a smile no matter how or when the tide turns. It teaches courage in defeat and modesty in victory. Here lies the value of baseball, football, for boys, and of hockey, tennis and basketball for girls. Life is a game. Play it according to the rules. Be a servant of the laws of the game."

A War Sermon.

Dr. M. Coover of the Seminary faculty preached in St. Mark's Church, Hanover, last Sunday and asserted a victory for Germany would be a supreme disaster to civilization and in fifty years America would be wiped out. He declared that any man who would not send his son to France or would not buy a Liberty Bond was an enemy of democracy.

He said the step needful at the conclusion of the present conflict is an international police force for the repression of nations that make war for gain. He justified the entrance of the United States into the war and urged his hearers to make every sacrifice of life and property for the defeat of militarism and autocracy and the preservation of democracy and liberty for all peoples.

School News.

The school directors at their last meeting fixed the school tax rate for the year at ten mills, nine mills general and one building being the same rate as last year. In discussing the tax problem, the directors realized that there would be increased expenses but by careful economy it was believed the same rate could be made to meet all expenses.

Guy Leiser was elected teacher of manual training to succeed Prof. Stephen C. Leininger, who resigned to accept a position in schools of Hershey. He is 23 years of age, has taught in Cumberland county and is a graduate this year from Shippensburg Normal.

Hon. C. Wm. Beales was among the first of the citizens of town to purchase Liberty Bonds after the campaign for the Liberty Bonds started in this county. Mr. Beales purchased a Bond for each member of his family.

"Work, play and love are helped by worship; in them a person learns the right to worship. A person who does not work cannot properly worship God, for He works. He is the Master Workman. In worship is the element of joy, surprise, giving and taking, play. And likewise a person cannot worship unless he loves. You can worship God anywhere, but no person can worship God anywhere unless he has first of all learned to worship God somewhere. Do not forsake the assembling of God's worshipping people altogether. You can work better, play better, love better, live better."

"With whom, then, can you become a master-workman, a fair player, a true lover and a devout worshipper? It is with the Lord Jesus. Yield yourselves to him in your work, play, love and worship and you will be obedient to the highest law. Then you will be free."

The graduating exercises were held in Lincoln Way Theatre on Thursday evening. The stage was beautifully and tastefully decorated by Allan B. Plank. The program reflected great credit on the class and the school and was as follows:

ADAMS CO. FARM BUREAU

THIRTY-FIVE HUNDRED FARMERS IN COUNTY.

Bureau Ready to Assist the Farmers to Solve Their Farming Problems.

The following circular is being sent to every farmer in the county:

The Adams County Farm Bureau has been established for the purpose of bringing to the farmers of the county practical suggestions and information concerning every phase of agriculture. For many years the Agricultural Experiment Stations have been studying a wide variety of practical farm problems, such as soil fertility, care of farm animals, control of crop diseases and insects, orchard culture, crop improvement, drainage, marketing, etc. Much valuable information has been secured, and to make it more useful, practical, and more readily available to the farmers of the State, the so-called agricultural extension work has been outlined. Although there are many forms of the extension work, the county farm bureau represents the best avenue to secure contact with the average farmer.

Organization.

The Adams County Farm Bureau is composed of farmers and persons interested in promoting the best interests of agriculture within the county. There are no fees or dues, but membership carries with it the privilege of voting for officers and of helping to shape the policy of the organization. A constitution and by-laws have been adopted. An annual meeting is held in January, when officers are elected and the work is outlined for the ensuing year. The extension representative is appointed by the Department of Agricultural Extension of the Pennsylvania State College. The actual work in Adams County was started May 7, 1917, when H. F. Hershey, was assigned for duty as extension representative. He will have the use of an automobile, and the greater part of his time will be spent in work over the county. Acquaintance will first be made with the conditions and the people of the county by systematically visiting all communities and calling upon individual farmers so far as possible. Saturday will be observed as office day. Arrangements have been made for stenographic services, and any office or telephone calls during the absence of the extension representative will have proper attention. Special requests for personal visits will receive immediate attention. The Farm Bureau accounts, reports of work done, and outlines of projects planned are open to public inspection.

Finances.

The general agricultural extension work throughout the State, including salaries of the local extension representative, is supported from public funds. The Smith-Lever Act, passed by Congress in May, 1914, has greatly increased the scope of the work, and makes provision for a definite schedule of appropriations from the Federal treasury, to be spent under the direction of the agricultural colleges of the various states. These funds become available only when covered by equal sums from within the State. The expenses of the local office, including travelling expenses of the extension representative, must be met by the county, either by appropriation from the county funds or by private subscription. An Act, passed by the Legislature in 1913, permits the County Commissioners to appropriate as much as $1,500.00 for the purpose of co-operating in this work.

The Farm Bureau will make a study of farm management problems, such as the arrangement of fields and buildings, crop rotations, feeding methods, labor distribution, the keeping of farm records and accounts, the marketing of farm produce, and the purchase of supplies. The different types of farming now in practice will be studied for the purpose of selecting the most profitable systems for different conditions.

Soil fertility is a serious problem on many farms. Recommendations will be made regarding the use of lime and commercial fertilizers, the growth of leguminous crops, and approved tillage methods; with special reference to improving soil texture and moisture holding capacity, and to preventing damage to fields resulting from surface washing or inadequate drainage.

Livestock is a vital part to most farming systems. The improvement of all livestock by systematic, constructive breeding should be given more serious consideration in general. Modern methods of dairy feeding and management, resulting in economical milk production and a more profitable outlet for dairy products, are absolutely essential to the dairy industry of the future. The Farm Bureau will attempt also to give due attention to the feeding and care of farm horses, sheep, swine and poultry.

Market gardeners, truckers, orchardists, and growers of special crops such as nursery stock, etc., all

TOWN GIRL WEDS MINISTER

WEDDING OF MISS MARION BLOCHER AND REV. SUTCLIFFE

Wedding Announced of Miss Blanche Weaner and Russell Mizell at Luray Caverns Last Summer.

Blocher—Sutcliffe.—Miss Marion Blocher, daughter of Mrs. J. O. Blocher of Seminary Ridge, became the bride of Rev. Alfred Towne Sutcliffe on Tuesday morning, June 5th, the ceremony taking place in St. James' Lutheran Church by Rev. J. B. Baker. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Baker played and Raymond Sammel of Bedford, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song." As the party entered the church Mrs. Baker played the Lohengrin March. The bride was gowned in a tulle suit and black maline hat and wore pink roses. Miss Hester Blocher, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of dark blue taffeta trimmed in gold and a black picture hat. She wore yellow roses. The best man was Charles P. Cessna of Gettysburg. The ushers were L. V. Buffington, C. M. Motter, C. N. Chamberlain and H. M. Gries students at college. The church was decorated with honeysuckle and peonies. Mrs. Baker played the Mendelssohn March as a recessional. After the wedding a reception was held at the bride's home and later the young couple went to Maytown, Lancaster county, where they will make their home. The bride graduated from the Gettysburg High School in 1909 and for several years has been the organist in the Methodist Church. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sutcliffe of Hummeltown, and graduated from Gettysburg in 1914, and from the Seminary in May of this year. He recently accepted the Lutheran pastorate at Maytown. Among those from out of town who were there for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sutcliffe, Misses Anna, Rebecca, Emma, and Rachel Sutcliffe, all of Hummeltown; Miss Beulah Straley of New Oxford; Misses Mary and Helen Wierman of York; Mrs. Walter Shue of Harrisburg.

Fissel — Flickinger.—Miss Daisy Flickinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Emory Flickinger of Hanover, and Grant A. Fissel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fissel of Berwick township, were married Wednesday morning in Trinity Reformed parsonage, Hanover, by Rev. M. J. Roth. They will reside in Hanover after a wedding trip to Baltimore and Lancaster.

Aldinger—Freed.—Miss Bertha G. Freed of York, and Clark S. Aldinger, manager of the Sandusky Cement Company of West York, were married last Saturday evening at the bride's home by the Rev. M. R. Hamsher, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. The attendants were George Freed of City Point, Va., a brother of the bride, and Miss Henneberger, of Greencastle, Pa. The bride, a former resident of New Oxford, is a graduate of the Shippensburg Normal School and taught for a number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Aldinger will reside in York.

McKnight—Strohm.—Miss Gayle Strohm, daughter of Chas. W. Strohm, a Carlisle business man, was married quietly on Monday of last week to Harry C. McKnight, Jr., of Pittsburgh, by the Rev. Andrew N. Hagerty of the First Presbyterian Church. The groom is a cousin of Wm. Hersh, Esq., of Gettysburg, and Mrs. C. K. Yeager and J. N. Hersh of New Oxford.

Donaldson — Kittinger.—James S. Donaldson and Miss Anna Kittinger both of Fairfield, were married at St. James' parsonage last Friday by Rev. J. B. Baker.

Three Lectures.

During the stay of Mr. J. W. Johnston in Gettysburg he will deliver three lectures. These lectures will be free and will be well illustrated.

On Wednesday evening, June 6, the lecture will be in the Presbyterian Church at 8:15, on the subject, "Origin and Development of the National Emblem."

On Friday evening the lecture will be in the Methodist Church at 8 o'clock. Mr. Johnston will give his illustrated lecture on John L. Burns. The lecturer has made some far-reaching researches touching the life, character and heroism of the citizen-hero of the Battle of Gettysburg, and has spared neither time nor money in securing the most modern type of slides in order to portray scenes and incidents in connection with the civic, military and religious life of the old patriot.

During the lecture Lieutenant A. D. Rood of Co. K, Seventh Wisconsin, will make a brief address disclosing some startling facts concerning the soldier life of Burns. A very pleasant surprise is in store at the close of the lecture for all those who attend.

Mr. Johnston will deliver his illustrated lecture on Jennie Wade in St. James Lutheran Church at a time to be later announced.

Gives instant relief to tired, aching, swollen, tender feet, blisters and calluses. Also sprinkle it in the foot-bath. British and French troops use it.

The traveling Flag and holy Bible of the P. O. S. of A., which are being taken through the lodges of that order, were received by the Gettysburg Lodge on Thursday evening. When the tour is completed the Flag and Bible will have visited every P. O. S. of A. lodge in the United States over one meeting night.

Mapping the United States.

Beginning nearly forty years ago to construct accurate topographic and geologic maps of both the known and the unexplored regions of the United States, the United States geological survey has speedily progressed with this part of its work until topographic maps of 40 per cent of the country are now published, besides maps for large areas in Alaska and Hawaii. Extensive areas have also been covered by geologic maps, and all the work from the beginning of the field survey to the printing of the finished map is done by this government bureau. Other activities of the survey are the classification of public lands, the annual collection of mineral statistics of the United States and investigations of the nation's water resources, all involving the publication of scientific and technical reports containing over 20,000 pages annually.

In the last thirty years over $100,000,000 has been spent by the geological survey in geologic and topographic surveys in the United States.

Seeing Distances.

At one mile in every direction is the distance a man can see when standing on a level day on the peak of the highest mountain—say at a height of 10,000 feet, or a little over five miles above the level of the sea. An observer is to be at a height of 6,000 feet above sea level to see objects at a distance of 10,000 feet. The distance in feet at which an object upon the surface of the earth is visible is equal to the square root of one and one-half times the height of the observer in feet above sea level. Some allowance has to be made for the effect of atmospheric refraction, but as the refraction varies at different heights and is affected by the various states of the weather, no precisely accurate figures for general purposes can be given. Probably from one-fourteenth to one-tenth of the distance given by the formula would have to be deducted owing to the refraction of the atmosphere.

Caustic Criticism.

A young New York man, a member of one of the first families as far as wealth is concerned, had been in the habit of writing poems, which, unable to dispose of, he managed to get printed in certain publications by paying therefor at advertising rates. He attended a social gathering at which a cynical old fellow named Timble, who despised the would-be poet, knowing of his manner of obtaining publicity, chanced to be present. The rich young man lost no chance of referring to his "works," and finally remarked, ostentatiously that he was born on the same day that Washington Irving died.

"Both of which occurrences," snapped old Timble, "have had a very depressing effect upon American literature."

"Ma," said little Harry, "I'll tell you what you ought to do."

"What, dear?" his mother asked.

"You ought to go over to live in some country where the people are Mohammedans."

"What on earth ever put such a thought as that into your dear head, darling?"

"Cause over there they think all fat women are beautiful."

"Harry, if you dare to open your mouth again this evening you will be sent to bed with nothing to eat!"—Chicago Herald.

Nonsinkable Safes For Ships.

Nonsinkable safes so placed that they will rise to the surface as soon as a ship sinks are the invention of Menotti Nanni. The Popular Science Monthly in describing them tells of the hundreds of millions of dollars now at the bottom of the sea that might have been saved by their use.

A Housewarming.

"I went to a cross to sit on around the house," said the lady in the Department store.

"How long is your lease, madam?" inquired the fresh clerk.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Helping Digestion.

Many persons dread to eat what is ordinarily considered a good dinner for fear of the resulting after effects. Foods that are well masticated and eaten slowly are not apt to cause indigestion, particularly if an acid dessert is taken at the end of the meal instead of a sweet dessert. Puddings and pies are sweet and not well digested by persons disposed to have dyspepsia. Too frequently the dessert is hurriedly eaten and not well masticated. This neglect makes such substances of greater indigestibility.

The belching, swelling and full feeling so frequently complained of after meals will be cured and prevented by eating acid fruits for dessert. Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, oranges and grapes are excellent for this purpose. Pineapples are excellent too. The gastric juice (in the stomach) normally contains about 2 per cent hydrochloric acid. If this acid is insufficient for any reason of ill health digestion is interfered with. So it is therefore easy to aid digestion by eating acid fruits.

But what has it all amounted to?

Have the men who have lived and worked simply to acquire great fortunes obtained peace of mind, happiness and honor? How many of them could answer "Yes"?

Has the country been benefited by the course they have taken? A very large majority of our countrymen would answer "No."

On the whole, the individualistic age has not been a success, either for the individual, or the community in which he has lived, or the nation.

We are, beyond question, entering on a period where the welfare of the community takes precedence over the interests of the individual and where the liberty of the individual will be more and more circumscribed for the benefit of the community as a whole.

Man's activities will hereafter be required to be not only for himself but for his fellowmen. To my mind there is nothing in the signs of the times so certain as this.

How the Rewards Will Come.

Our only decoration—the almighty dollar—is receding into the background.

The man of exceptional ability, of more than ordinary talent, will hereafter look for his rewards, for his honors, not in one direction but in two:—First—and foremost—in some public work accomplished, and, secondarily, in wealth acquired.

In place of having it said of him at his death that he left so many hundred thousand dollars it will be said that he rendered a certain amount of public service and, incidentally, left a certain amount of money.

Such a goal will prove a far greater satisfaction to him, he will live a more rational, worth while life and he will be doing his share to provide a better country in which to live.

I have two reasons for believing that future conditions will be as I have briefly sketched them:

First, because the world is being drawn together in one centralized community through the wonderful development in science and the marvelous work of the inventor.

Second, because in our country especially we are entering upon a new stage of development, which calls loudly for men who will render disinterested public service.

We face new conditions, and in order to survive and succeed we will require a different spirit of public service.

One reason why I am strongly for universal military training is that it develops in the youth a sense of all-around responsibility to his country, not only in time of war but in time of profit sharing.

By profit sharing I do not mean bonus giving. I mean actual profit sharing plans based on the earnings of the business, with a fair percentage to capital and a fair percentage to labor after ordinary wages and interest have been earned.

Profit sharing can be done satisfactorily only when the business concern makes public its transactions, so that the laborer and the stockholder can know as much about the business as does the manager himself.

In the adjustment of difficulties between capital and labor I am confident that open books will accomplish much more than open shops.

These changes are far-reaching and fundamental. What are we going to do about it? What is to be our mental attitude? How are we going to handle these problems?

Can we approach them from the same point of view as did our fathers, who lived in a strictly individualistic age? Can we approach them from the knowledge we have gained from law books which were written in the individualistic age? If we do we will be combatting the mighty onward rush of new thought and new conditions, provided in large measure by the scientist, the educator, the inventor.

These changes are far-reaching and fundamental. What are we going to do about it? What is to be our mental attitude? How are we going to handle these problems?

—GEORGE W. PERKINS.

peace. He is much more apt to be a faithful, conscientious servant than if he had not had military training. He enters public service in time of peace in more nearly the same spirit that he would enter military service in time of war—namely, from a sense of patriotic duty and a desire to serve his country and his fellowmen.

In recent years we have been hearing a great deal about government ownership of our railroads. We are told that in Germany the railroads are owned by the government and that their operation is most successful. This is true, but in Germany conditions are vastly different.

The military training of the youth, in fact, the entire trend of education in Germany is to impress upon the young men of that land that they owe service to their country. When a man enters the government's employ in the railroad business he is as conscientious as he would be were he entering the government's service in time of war.

If our railroads were to be taken over and operated by our government at this time, how many of you think we would duplicate Germany's success?

Government ownership of railroads may be as desirable in this country as it is in Germany, but we must first have public servants who will at least come somewhere near the standard of Germany's public servants in efficiency and honesty.

Look at the spectacle we are presenting to the world at this very moment.

The changes of the last twenty-five years socially, industrially and economically have been very great, yet I believe they are infinitesimal compared to the changes that are coming. Precedent makes cowards of us all. But the educator, the scientist and the inventor have left us no choice. We must adjust our thought and action to new conditions.

GEORGE W. PERKINS.

ment in our pork barrel legislation. Could we afford to have our railroads operated by the same type of public servants?

If our government is to endure, if we are to take our proper place among the nations of the world in the new civilization.

Consideration for one another is speedily becoming a social, industrial and economic necessity.

Centralization is the order of the day. The telegraph, the telephone, the automobile and the airship are the causes. They have wiped out not only old precedents and customs but State and national lines as well.

A man living in Boston who wishes to talk to a man living in San Francisco simply rings a bell, puts a little instrument to his ear and proceeds to talk. There is hardly a miracle in the Bible more wonderful than this.

The doctrine of "State rights" is being rapidly demolished. The nation is being obliged to assume many of the functions of government heretofore performed by the State, and this tendency is growing.

The State, viewed as an individual with the right to do as it pleases within itself, without regard for other States, can no longer be tolerated.

Only the nation can act in matters that affect interstate relations, and with intercommunication and transportation developed to their present stage a considerable percentage of a State's activities are interstate in their effects and consequences.

The World Is Drawing Together.

We must therefore take on a new nationalism. The world has been drawn very closely together by the cable and the transatlantic liner, but it is on the verge of being drawn infinitely more closely together by the wireless, the airship and the submarine telephone.

When these are practical everyday instruments of intercommunication and transportation the social practices and the industrial methods of one nation will quickly and seriously affect all other nations. This will require the yielding by nations of certain of their individualistic rights and prerogatives in order to safeguard and benefit the world as a whole.

This opens up a great new vista—it presents problems that are intensely interesting and of far-reaching importance.

The period that is upon us offers large opportunities for individual thought, initiative and action, for constructive work and for constructive statesmanship.

The mighty changes taking place in Europe tell us with unmistakable voice that the reconstruction period is at hand. The man of the future must realize it. He must be ready to adjust himself to the new conditions. He must have sufficient vision, intelligence and courage to cast aside the methods and precedents of a bygone age.

He must let the dead past bury its dead. He must not look back to the setting sun but forward to the rising sun.

REV. FATHER HAYES DIESPASTOR OF ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH ABOUT FIVE YEARS.*Singleton J. Myers of Biglerville, and McSherrystown's Oldest Citizen, J. H. Kuhn, in Death List.

Rev. Thomas M. Hayes, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, Gettysburg, from 1907 to 1912, died on Monday at the home of his brother, near Binghamton, aged about 76 years. Rev. Fr. Hayes' health was failing during the last year of his pastorate here and he underwent treatment in a Baltimore hospital, but finally found that he would have to give up active work, and he went to the farm of his brother that he might in part, at least, regain his health. For some time he had been blind. Rev. Fr. Hayes was born in Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania, not far from Binghamton. He was for a time a member of the Jesuits. For some years he was pastor at Sacred Heart Church, Conewago Chapel, and went from there to Centralia where he served the parish of which Rev. T. J. Crotty, formerly of Gettysburg, is now the head. He came here in 1907 and retired in 1912, being succeeded by Rev. T. F. X. Dougherty, who was transferred to Lancaster, Rev. W. F. Doyle, the present pastor, succeeding him here. The funeral of Rev. Fr. Hayes was held in Binghamton on Wednesday morning.

Singleton J. Myers, a retired farmer living in Biglerville, died at his home in that place early Tuesday morning, aged 72 years, 9 months and 12 days. Heart trouble was the cause of death but his health had not been robust for some time. He had a number of friends in Gettysburg and was in town on Memorial Day greeting them. He was a life long Democrat and enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. He leaves his wife, a son, George P. Myers, of Quaker Valley, and a daughter, Miss Clara Myers, who is teaching at Kutztown. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Clara Raftensperger, of Gettysburg. Funeral was on Friday morning, services in the Reformed Church at Arendtsville by Rev. T. C. William J. Chrismer, a prominent citizen and Democrat of Mt. Pleasant township, died at his home along the Bonneauville road, near latter town, on Wednesday, being within five days of his 60th birthday. Mr. Chrismer was a successful farmer and a year or two ago built himself a fine residence along the Bonneauville road. He enjoyed the confidence and respect of all who knew him. He had been a member of the school board for 35 years and two years ago was the Democratic nominee for Register and Recorder. He was for years a director in the Mummasburg Mutual Fire Protection Society. He leaves his father, John E. Chrismer, of Mt. Pleasant township, his wife and these children: Charles Chrismer, of Littletown, Mrs. Claggett, of Shelbyville, Mo.; Albert Chrismer of Mt. Two Regiments in Camp.

The Seventh United States Regiment began to arrive on Monday morning and the last section put in appearance the same evening. Their camp is a short distance south of the Catholic Cemetery, along the Round Top branch of the Reading Railway. As the recruits arrive and the Fourth and Seventh U. S. Regiments are enlarged to four and perhaps six regiments the camps will be extended toward each other occupying part of the ground upon which the great Peace Camp of 1913 was located. In the two camps there are now over 4000 soldiers, and these figures are expected to be increased from 8000 to 12,000. No visitors are allowed in camps, being upon a war basis. Both regiments have fine bands and as the camps are near highways the band concerts can be enjoyed by outsiders.

The soldier boys are glad to be in what they enthusiastically call God's country. The Fourth U. S. Regiment, known in the army as General Grant's Regiment, has been in Texas for years, coming here from Brownsville, and the Seventh U. S. Regiment, known as General Miles' Regiment, came here from El Paso and the jump from sand and sage brush to our garden country has proven delightful to the boys.

Gettysburg has taken on a busy appearance. Men in khaki going up and down the streets all hours of the day and they are a fine body of men and by far the most orderly the town has ever had. This feature is so noticeable as to call constant attention and praise from our people. The boys are busy from reveille at 6:30 to retreat at 8:30 P. M., with the duties in camp and the constant drilling which has begun. Evening parades will be at 5 o'clock P. M. The demand for labor is bringing people from other sections. Lumber is being bought by the car loads and all kinds of buildings are proposed and will be in the course of erection at an early date. Many places, houses and rooms, in the town have already been rented. The Quartermaster's headquarters are in the Stallsmith Building and the big trolley barn has been rented for storage purposes.

Ten Million Registration.

Kaiser Bill and his dear ally, the Sick Man of Europe, must be very ill as they hear the tramp, tramp, tramp of the 10,000,000 of America's young manhood from 21 to 30 years of age who responded to the selective draft on Tuesday, June 5th, and they must have an absolutely "gone" feeling as they contemplate this figure and the fact that there must be in this country Americans of the war age between 18 and 45 of about twenty-five million more.

The ten million liberty loving Americans registered themselves as good law abiding citizens. The work of registration was largely volunteer work. In this county it was done under Sheriff Howard J. Hartman, County Commissioner Harry B. Slagle and Dr. J. McCrea Dickson. Virginia Memorial Dedication.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the dedication of the handsome Virginia Memorial surmounted with equestrian statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee takes place with the following ceremony:

Meeting called to order by His Excellency, Henry C. Stuart, Governor of Virginia.

have some special problems of production or marketing. The Farm Bureau is always ready to render any possible assistance.

The office of the Farm Bureau will so far as possible, be made a general information bureau for the farmers of the county. A reference library of agricultural books, bulletins, representative periodicals, and descriptive catalogs will be available for public use.

An important part of the work is the harmonious co-operation with all county organizations and with the schools. Agriculture exhibits, granges and Farmers' Clubs will receive hearty support. Crop and livestock demonstrations will be conducted among groups of farmers. An effort will be made to interest the young folks in farming as a business by the organization of corn, potato and pig clubs. The intimate association which binds the Farm Bureau to the farm and home, on the one hand, and to the Pennsylvania State College and the Federal Department of Agriculture, on the other hand, is very vital to the success of the undertaking.

The Farm Bureau office is in the Court House, first floor, room 9, in the office adjoining the Superintendent of Public Schools. Open every day. Extension representative will be in the office every Saturday, and at other times by appointment.

You can telephone your wants to the Farm Bureau by using either the Bell or Local phone. If the Extension Representative is not in the office, state to the person who answers the telephone, your name, address, telephone number and the purpose of your call so that the Extension Representative can get in touch with you promptly on his return.

The Farm Bureau services are free. Do not hesitate to consult the Farm Bureau concerning your livestock, crops, fertilizers, feeds, machinery plant or animal diseases, location of fields or buildings, etc.

Marketing is as important as production. The Farm Bureau aims to help the farmer, not only to produce a better commodity more economically, but also to market it more satisfactorily.

Good crops are always valuable. They hold a special interest for your neighbor. If you score a big success, tell us how you did it so that your neighbors may profit by your experiences. This is a time of great national need for larger crops and by giving others your experiences you are doing a small part of "your bit" for your country. If you fail, don't become discouraged; but, if possible, tell us why you failed and call on the Farm Bureau to help you. A free exchange of ideas cannot harm anyone and may do much good. The Farm Bureau aims to be an exchange for practical farm experience.

Become a member of the Farm Bureau. There are no membership fees, but if you send us your name, we know that we have your support. The work will become valuable in direct proportion to the confidence and cooperation shown by every farmer.

The Farm Bureau is not a charity. It is an educational institution conducted for public welfare.

The officers of the Bureau are: President, J. L. Butt, Gettysburg. Vice President, E. F. Strausbaugh, Orrtanna.

Secretary, Geo. M. Rice, Arendtsville.

Treasurer, C. A. Hershey, McKnightstown.
